WRITER - COMEDIAN - SPEAKER

about

SK created and operates the, internationally popular, Lousy San Francisco Walking Tour. This humorous tour of the City by the bay has won awards in each of the last four years. Additionally, he created and hosted the Lousy SF Podcast, which also won Best Event or Experience by 7x7 Magazine's Best of the Bay. SK is a successful humor writer, blogger, ghost writer, stand-up comic, animator, voice over artist, master-of-ceremonies, and public speaker.

recommendations for

"SK is an extremely funny guy.

Not as funny as me but he's a much better writer."

- Bobby Slayton

"A wealth of knowledge and an extraordinary storyteller. SK has done a massive amount of first hand research and his passion shows through not only in his knowledge but also in his enthusiasm."

- Jon C.

"SK is really entertaining, enthusiastic and knowledgeable. He is a big, bright and lively guy - a one man show."

- Dr. Selwin M.

"Over and above expectations. SK was a lovely chap and I am still in awe of how he holds so much information."

- B. Micks

"SK is a comedic genius, If only we had discovered the midichlorian in his blood earlier, he could be hosting the Tonight Show."

- Chris Tabish

- You Should All Be Ashamed of Yourselves

"I don't feel very funny...well, that's not exactly true. I did down some expired milk back stage so I feel a little funny."

Let's just go around the room and each person can tell us their best way to get blood out of carpet fibers.

Child labor laws would be circumvented by relabeling all manual labor as "chores." This would allow many occupational safety risks to be classified as valuable life lessons. OSHA's motto would adjust from: Plan, Prevent, Protect; to "Now what have we learned?"

I know it's a little chilly in here right now, but after lunch we're gonna burn a witch.

"I like to take a little time out on the tour to point out some of San Francisco's unique architecture...there's some."
